In order to become certified as an RHIT students must complete the Associates Degree and are then eligible to sit for the RHIT administered through AHIMA. The stand-alone certificate does not make the student eligible to sit for the RHIT. However, this certificate prepares students for careers in coding. After gaining experience in coding the certificate completer would be able to sit for the CCS or CCS-P. The RHIT, CCS, and CCS-P meet licensure requirements throughout the US.
